COOKIES

The Site may use "cookies" as defined by the CNIL in the following manner:

"A cookie is a small file stored by a server on a user's terminal (computer, telephone, etc.) and associated with a web domain (i.e., in most cases, with all the pages of a single website). This file is automatically sent back when the user contacts the same domain again.

Cookies have many uses: they can be used to memorize your customer ID with a merchant site, the current contents of your shopping cart, the language in which the web page is displayed, an identifier enabling your browsing to be tracked for statistical or advertising purposes, etc. "

Information from the official CNIL website (<https://www.cnil.fr/fr/glossaire>)

The purpose of these cookies is to facilitate user navigation and improve the quality of the service offered, by collecting statistical and traffic-related information.

Users are informed of the use of these cookies by means of a banner asking for their consent. If the user consents, this consent is considered valid for a maximum period of thirteen (13) months.
